TRADE PUBLICATIONS.

(The standard sizes for pamphlets and trade catalogs recommended by all the principal engineering societies of the United States are 3½ x 6 ins., 6 x 9 ins. and 9 x 12 ins.)

RECORDING VOLTMETERS.—Bristol Co., Waterbury, Conn. Bulletin 131. Paper; 8 × 10½ ins.; pp. 43; illustrated.

The several forms of Bristol recording voltmeters for various electrical circuits are described in this bulletin. Sample specimens are given of the scales of charts carried in stock.

ELECTRICAL CONSTRUCTION SUPPLIES.—Fletcher Mfg. Co., Dayton, Ohio. Catalog 565. Paper; 6 × 9 ins.; pp. 64; illustrated.

This catalog is largely given up to material of use to the electrical contractor in stringing overhead lines, arc lamps, incandescent street lamps, etc.

DRAWING TABLES.—Keuffel & Esser Co., Hoboken, N. J. Leaflet; 5½ × 9 ins.; illustrated.

Several styles of the "Hudson" drawing tables are described in this catalog. These are of new design and cover styles from the smallest and simplest to the largest and most fully equipped types.

HIGH-TENSION SUBMARINE CABLES.—Waterbury Co., New York City. Paper; 3 × 8 ins.; pp. 15; illustrated.

This company has reprinted from the "Electric Railway Journal" of Feb. 25, 1911, an illustrated article on the simultaneous installation of seven high-tension submarine cables under the Harlem River at 216th St., New York City.

MANGANESE STEEL.—Edgar Allen American Manganese Steel Co., McCormick Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Paper; 3½ × 6¼ ins.; pp.8.

This is a reprint in pamphlet form of an article on "Manganese Steel and Its Application in the Ceramic Industries," read before the National Brick Manufacturers' Association by Mr. G. W. Kneisly.

STEAM PUMPS.—Ingersoll-Rand Co., 11 Broadway, New York. Circular 7004. Paper; 6 × 9 ins.; pp. 12; illustrated.

This company has now issued, in form corresponding to its standard bulletins, a leaflet describing the standard products formerly made by the A. S. Cameron Steam Pump Works, which concern has now been consolidated with the Ingersoll-Rand Co.

ROAD ROLLERS.—Buffalo Steam Roller Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Paper; 3½ × 6 ins.; pp. 40; illustrated.

In a handy little booklet, this company has compiled directions for starting and operating its various road rollers. The information includes descriptions of the oiling apparatus, governor, injectors, etc., and tells how to get up steam, how to maintain the fire, start the engine, feed water, clean the tubes and boiler, care for the engine, etc.. It also gives some hints on the best ways of using the roller, as, for instance, the use of a road grader behind the roller, the preparation of macadam, etc.

KEROSENE HEATING TORCHES.—Hauck Mfg. Co., Richard St. and Hamilton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. Bulletin 31. Leaflet; 3 × 6 ins.; illustrated.

This small leaflet describes a torch suitable for general shop work quite similar to the familiar gasoline torches, but burning kerosene. It is claimed that a more intense flame and absolute safety have been secured.

AIR COMPRESSORS.—Thos. H. Dallett Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Paper; 6 × 9 ins.; illustrated. Bulletins 200, 201 and 202.

The first of these leaflets describes the general construction details adopted by this company in its line of compressors. The second leaflet describes the straight-line, belt-driven type, and the third bulletin shows a straight-line, steam-driven type.

TRACTION ENGINES.—Holt Mfg. Co., Stockton, Cal. Bulletin TE-40. Paper; 8 x 11 ins.; pp. 72; illustrated.

In an attractive booklet, the Holt company has described its caterpillar type of traction engines as made for various classes of service, such as for plowing or for freight haulage over difficult trails. Several of these caterpillar engines are used on the Los Angeles Aqueduct construction, and their use is pictured here.

HOISTS.—Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., New York City. Paper; 3½ × 6½ ins.; pp. 23; illustrated.

This company's well-known line of chain blocks and electric hoists is very briefly described, with a few words on the construction. This line includes duplex and differential blocks for fixed hand hoisting and various hand and electric hoists for trolley service.

COAL WASHING JIGS.—Foust Concentration Co., 332 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. Paper; 4 × 9 ins.; pp. 12; illustrated.

The Foust jig for coal washing, as here described, is the same in principle and operation as the jigs used for ore concentration. It is intended for use in removing physical impurities from the lower grades of coal, and is made in units of 300 tons per day capacity and upwards.

GAS ENGINES.—Foos Gas Engine Co., Springfield, Ohio. Catalog 23. Paper; 8½ × 10½ ins.; pp. 48; illustrated.

This new catalog shows a line of horizontal engines of 3 to 90 HP., single cylinder. Among the new apparatus shown is an oil engine designed for operation on certain grades of heavy liquid fuels. An interesting illustration is the reproduction of an unretouched photograph of a portable engine running at 300 r.p.m. mounted on polished rollers.

STEAM TURBINES.—Allis-Chalmers Co., Milwaukee, Wis. Bulletin 1079. Paper; 8 × 10½ ins.; pp. 32; illustrated.

This bulletin describes the steam-turbine generating units designed by this company. The general and detail features of the design are well set forth with adequate illustrations, and there is matter on the equipment for lubrication, governing, adjustment, etc. The electrical features of the generator itself are very briefly passed over.

ROAD OILER.—Walter S. French & Co., Moorestown, N. J. Paper; 3½ × 6 ins.; pp. 20; illustrated.

The so-called 20th Century Road Oiler is described in this leaflet. It consists of a tank wagon, attached to the rear of which is a small engine-driven pump for forcing the oil out onto and into the surface of the road at high pressures. The book is profusely illustrated with photographs of streets, where it has been used. There are many testimonials from users.

GASOLINE HOIST FOR SHAFTS AND MINES.—Seaget Engine Works, Lansing, Mich. Paper; 6¾ × 10 ins.; pp. 12; illustrated.

The Olds hoist has a multi-cylinder, four-cycle gasoline engine of the automobile type. This drives by gearing the large rope drum, which drum is fitted with two band brakes lined with wood-bearing blocks. The hoist, with four-cylinder 40-HP. engine and 42-in. drum, can hoist 1,000 lbs. at 600 ft. per min., 400 lbs. at 400 ft. and 180 lbs. at 4,000 ft. The engine gears and drum are all mounted on the same bed plate.

ROAD OIL.—Texas Co., Houston, Tex. Miscellaneous Bulletins. Paper; illustrated.

In an attractive booklet the so-called "Texaco" road oil and "Texaco" macadam bonder for treating and building broken-stone roads are described. There are photographs showing the cold surface application of road oil, the hot application of oil, the penetration and cold mixing methods of preparing the top layers of macadam with heavy binder.

Another booklet entitled "The Proof of the Pudding" is devoted to setting forth the merits of this company's paving cement for various "permanent" roadways.

The company has also started a house organ entitled "Paving and Roads," in which from time to time they describe various phases of road construction where their products have been used.

ELECTRIC MOTORS AND GENERATORS.—Crocker-Wheeler Co., Ampere, N. J. Bulletins 126, 128, 129, 130 and 132. Paper; 7½ × 10 ins.; illustrated.

Bulletins 126, 128, 129 and 132 describe a portion of the line of motors put out by this company, while the remaining bulletin devotes its small space to a description of a small engine-driven set of 1.75 to 21 KW. The first-mentioned bulletin describes the mechanical and electrical construction of polyphase induction motors to run at constant speed in sizes of ½ to 250 HP. Several pages of photographs are appended to show the application of these motors. In the other bulletins, motors for rolling mills, for direct-current crane and hoist service, and for general shop use, respectively, are described.
